Copy of a Letter from Captain Salter to Rear-Admiral Digby.

Santa Margarita, Auguſt 1, 1782.

I HAVE the Honor to acquaint you, that, at the Dawn of Day on the Morning of the 29th ult. I gave Chace to a Sail in the S. E. Quarter, the Wind being at N. E. b. N. Cape Henry then bearing Weſt, diſtant about Five Leagues. Having approached within a Mile and Half of the Chace, I diſcovered her to be a French Frigate from the Signals and Manœuvres ſhe made, and of equal Force to ourſelves; but perceiving Eight Sail of large Ships bearing down for us under a Croud of Sail, Two of which at no great Diſtance, (after conſulting my Officers) I wore Ship and ſtood from her to the Northward, having not only an Enemy but a Lee-Shore to encounter. The Frigate gave us Chace till Three P. M. when ſhe tacked and ſtood to the Weſtward. As we then had loſt Sight of the large Ships from our Maſt-head, and the Weather being very clear, my Officers and Ship's Company expreſſing an eager Deſire to bring the Frigate to Action, it was judged proper to tack and ſtand after her for that Purpoſe. In a Quarter of an Hour ſhe tacked alſo, and ſtood towards us. At Five o'Clock, being within a Cable's Length of each other, ſhe with her Starboard and we with our Larboard Tacks on Board, ſhe opened her Fire and gave us her Broadſide, and immediately wore: We reſerved our Fire till an Opportunity offered to rake her while wearing, which was effected with a well-directed Fire from our Starboard Guns; then gradually cloſed each other within Piſtol-Shot, keeping her on our Starboard Beam; and the Action was continued in this Manner warmly, on both Sides, for an Hour and Quarter, when ſhe ſtruck her Colours, and proved to be L'Amazone, mounting 36 Guns (long Twelve and Six Pounders) and carrying 301 Men, commanded by the Vicomte de Montguioté, who was killed in the early Part of the Action.

I ſent a Lieutenant and One Third of my Ship's Company to take Poſſeſſion of her. Every Effort was made to repair our Damages and to have the Priſoners ſhifted, in order to make the beſt of our Way here, and avoid the other Ships, which the French Officers informed me were Part of Thirteen Sail of their Line, beſides Frigates; but unavoidable Delays happened, in having only One Boat fit for hoiſting out (which tranſported on Board 68 Priſoners, including Officers) together with the wrecked and ſhattered Condition of the Amazone, ſhe having loſt her Main and Mizen Maſts ſoon after ſhe ſtruck, and from the Wounds received in Action, we kept her in Tow during the Night, with all the Sail we could could ſet, and ſtood to the N.E. in Hopes of encreaſing our Diſtance from the other Ships; but by Break of Day we plainly diſcerned the whole Fleet following us under a Crowd of Sail. I immediately recalled my Officers and Men on Board, cut the Hawſer, and ſet adrift my Boat, not being able to hoiſt her in, and abandoned the Prize, after having ordered the ſmall Remains of her Fore Rigging to be cut away. Had Time and Circumſtances permitted me to have ſhifted all the Priſoners, I ſhould have ordered her to have been burnt, to prevent her being retaken by the Enemy.

I cannot ſufficiently extol the Conduct of my Officers and Ship's Company for their Gallantry and ſpirited Conduct during the Action, and for their vigorous Exertions afterwards in repairing, in the beſt Manner poſſible, the Damages ſuſtained, ſo as to enable us to eſcape the Enemy. At the ſame Time I cannot paſs unnoticed the gallant and Officer-like Conduct of the Viſcount de Montguioté, in leading his Ship to Action. After he was killed the Chevalier de Lepine, Second Captain, (on whom the Command devolved) did every Thing that an experienced Officer in his Situation could poſſibly do; for being himſelf, and all his Officers excepting One, and about One Half of his Men, either killed or wounded, and the Maſts ſo crippled as to expect them to go over the Side every Moment, ſeveral Guns diſmounted, and Four Feet Water in the Hold, will, I dare ſay, juſtify to his King and Country the Neceſſity of their Surrender.

The Damages ſuſtained by His Majeſty's Ship, and the Number of Men killed and wounded in Action, are but trivial, comparatively to thoſe ſuſtained by the Enemy. Our Mainmaſt was ſhot through in ſeveral Places; the Foremoſt, Fore, Main and Mizen Topmaſts, and ſeveral of the Yards, wounded; many Grape Shot lodged in our Copper, between Wind and Water; our Sail, Standing and Running Rigging, (except Mizen Shrouds) were entirely cut to Pieces. Five were killed and 17 wounded on Board His Majeſty's Ship during the Action: Amongſt the former Mr. Dalrymple, Midſhipman, a worthy, deſerving Youth, who, had he lived, would have been an Ornament to his Profeſſion; and amongſt the latter Mr. Otto, the Boatſwain, who is ſhot through the Arm. Killed on Board the Amazone, according to the French Officers Account, about 70 Men, including Officers, and Wounded between 70 and 80.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

ELLIOT SALTER.
